Leader Urging Personal Bid On Membership

At the pre-Christmas meeting of the State Executive the president (Mr. Lonnie) in a spirited appeal to members called for the setting of personal targets in the enrolment of new members in 1960.

"Our organisation is about 16,500 strong in this State," he said; "it should be 20,000 or more.

"This is the only disappointment of our members. Membership must be the big question for the New Year."

Mr. Lonnie said that if State Executive members were to pledge themselves individually to enlist so many new members that they could reasonably expect sub-branch executive officers and members to follow their example.

Of all the organisations to which people could belong it would be hard to find one with a better spirit than that shown around the executive table of the League.

Members might constantly ask themselves: What is the League, and what is it doing?"

Achievements

The League’s achievements over a period exceeding 40 years had indeed been considerable, and they reflected the devoted devotion of the organisation on the tomb of Sir Christopher Wren in Westminster Cathedral, London, urging those who bought his memorial to look to them.

Just as London abounded with the fine churches built by Wren, so had the League left its mark in the Australian way of life, and these achievements were its finest monument.

The League was part of the community, and the development of this part was the personal responsibility of its members and executive.

The coming year should see the completion of two projects of outstanding importance: the new Veterans’ Home at Mt. Lawley and the renovations at Anzac House.

The veterans’ home, he was quite sure, would prove to be one of the finest in Australia and the Anzac House alterations would provide the League with a home second to none in the Commonwealth.

Expressing his thanks to executive members for their cooperation and loyalty over the past 12 months, Mr. Lonnie said he had ridden them unmercifully at times.

For Workers

"This place," he said, "is no place for show ponies; it is a place for workers—men and women who love the League. It is a place that gives us an opportunity to serve ex-servicemen and women who were prepared to die for their country and who are now themselves in need of help."

"It is with the greatest regret that I cannot provide any shedding of the load in 1960; in fact, I know it will get heavier, but there it is.

Expressing the gratitude of members to the executive to Mr. Lonnie for his leadership, Mr. E. C. Townshead—a State Vice-President—said that although the State had been a "slave-driver," he had been an inspiration to all of them.

Mr. J. A. Rolfe—the other State Vice-President—on behalf of the executive thanked the State Secretary (Mr. W. Webb) and his staff for a good year’s work.

Responding, Mr. Webb said that no effort would be spared to maintain efficiency.

R.S.L. Christmas Cake For Chelsea Veterans

At the Royal Chelsea Hospital, London, on December 15, over 200 of Britain’s old soldiers assembled in the Great Hall to receive, as a gift from the Victorian branch of the R.S.L., a massive Christmas cake.

The cake weighed 11 cwts. and baked in the shape of the map of Australia was beautifully iced and decorated with both the League Badge and the Coat of Arms of Victoria.

The presentation was made by Colonel the Hon. Sir William Leggett, Agent General for Victoria, to the Governor of the Hospital, General Sir Cameron Nicho- lson.

Prior to the ceremony the guests were received in the Council Chamber by the Governor and Lieut-Governor of the hospital and Sir William and Lady Leggett, who were saluted with a trumpet fanfare by trumpeters of Coldstream Guards Band when they entered the Great Hall.

After the presentation the oldest pensioner at the hospital, Sgt. Joseph Jones OBE of the 8th Hussars and a veteran of the 1882 Egyptian campaign, was called upon to assist in cutting the first slice. Refreshments of Ginger beer and spiced ginger beer were served and the Toast of the League and Victoria Greetings to you who made the name of all British soldiers respected throughout the world.

Anzac House Project About To Commence

The all-clear has been given by the State Executive for the commencement of alterations and renovations to Anzac House.

At a special meeting held on January 6 the executive unanimously decided to tender of £54,000, submitted by G. Robinson, be accepted, and work be put in hand forthwith.

The period set down for work is four months, and it is expected that the completely renovated house will be available for use prior to the next State Congress.

The Band of H.M. Coldstream Guards rendered an appropriate selection of music including "Waltzing Matilda.

A card attached to the cake had the following inscription:

"From the Returned Sail- drs, Soldiers and Airmen’s Imperial League of Australia—Victoria branch. Greetings to you who made the name of all British soldiers respected throughout the world.

Nearly £5,000 Paid Out By Aged Fund

An amount approaching £5,000 was paid out by the Aged Soldiers’ Relief Fund over the past 12 months. Mr. B. B. Morris reported at the Executive meeting recently.

Welfare grants had increased £7,000, and Christmas grants to £357.

Mr. Mar's said that the £100 allowed to the League for the administration was totally inadequate, and the Aged Fund was offering a 50 per cent increase in the allowance as being slightly less than the realities of the situation.

The old story about "Old Soldiers Never Die, they only Fade away" can equally apply to sub-branches. This was exemplified by the action taken by the Chairman of Salmon Gums, one of the few surviving members of the sub-branch, to run a one-man Poppy Day appeal in the small township and dispose of the poppy collection—Grand work Charlie.

While on Poppy Day, there was a special display of postcards from Fithara with, unfortunately, a sad ending. The secretary of that sub-branch, Mr. E. M. Butt, nobly fulfilled his mission in spite of ill health and it is with deep regret that I report his passing to Higher Service a few days after return of the Poppy Day return.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find a report from Southern Cross, containing a worthwhile suggestion to help the War Vet- erans' Home. Although one request has come in for Cape May, we are here to offer our assistance to the many inquiries of a similar nature.

On December 11 the opportunity was taken to bid "Au revoir" to Major-General Sir William Robertson who had relinquished his appointment as G.O.C. Western Command. The move was generally recognised and appreciated by the Command and G.O.C. at all times. Major-General Hargood's new appointment is as chairman of the Joint Planning Committee, and he will be domiciled in Canberra.

Things are moving at Rockingham and the latest report is that the parking of caravans is now 400 ft. of gravel access road to facilitate the parking of caravans. We are greatly indebted to the Rockingham Building and Trading Company for their generous donation of 800 ft. of free fill to the road. This phase of our activities is developing rapidly and the demand for caravan sites may soon exceed the supply.

Sub-branch secretaries are requested to take special thought to the 1960 State Congress which will be held at Melbourne. It has been the practice in the past to send the first Congress address to each sub-branch, but this early reminder has been proved unproductive. The proposal now is to issue a postal notice for the month of March, which should give ample time for the forwarding of Congress items and other important business.

Seasonal compliments were exchanged in the December number 12 when approximately 300 guests attended the club's Christmas get-together. The entertainment included some of the most charming performances by many citizens who, during the course of the year, have contributed to our numerous and successful functions. A notable feature of the season was the Chief Justice, Sir Arthur Wolf, K.C.M.G., who promises to be present at our function in January.

South Australia Has New Club Rule

The South Australian State Executive has written to the National Secretary as follows:

It would be appreciated if you would advise all State branches that from December 1st the following club rule is being strictly enforced.

20 (1) Members must, whilst upon the Club premises, wear evidence of the purchase of membership of the League and the financial clip of the League for the current year. Any member failing to do so shall not be entitled to any of the rights or privileges of membership.

This rule may be further promoted by publishing in sub-branch magazines or other means, anything which could cause embarrassment to the individual.

When State branches or sub-branches give letters of introduction to their members it would be appreciated if these letters are emphatically pointed out.

Our own members are expected to observe the rule strictly and exceptions cannot be made in the case of interstate visitors who may be visiting or residing in the State.

Thanking you in anticipation.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) A. G. Pritchard, State Secretary.

Caravan Sites Rushed

There has been quite a rush in recent weeks on caravan sites at the R.S.L. Holiday Camp at Palm Beach (Rockingham).

The weekly rental for sites is £2, and not £2/10/ as advertised in the December issue of this journal.

Sites can also be rented on a permanent basis for £30 a year.

Applications for sites should be made to the R.S.L. Branch Secretary, Annacourt House, Perth.

SPECIAL MESSAGE FOR THE NEW YEAR

(From the State President, Mr. W. S. Lonnie)

WITH the commencement of the new year I welcome the opportunity of saying to all members of the R.S.L. and their wives, and to the Women's Auxiliary, throughout the State, how much we are indebted to the sincerity of purpose and splendid endeavour which has characterised the work of the League, not only in 1959 but in all previous years.

THE YEAR just ending has been strenuous in many ways but I think we can fairly claim to have not only kept faith with our charter of the past but to have laid the foundations for an outstanding year in 1960.

ON A MORE personal note, my wife and I have been honoured by the friendships built up in so many parts of Western Australia and by the spontaneous expressions of goodwill which we have been privileged to receive from so many sub-branches.

AS THE years go by I become more and more convinced that we are privileged, every one of us, to belong to a great and proud organisation. The spirit of service is fundamental to the R.S.L., and so long as we retain a sincere desire to give service to others and to our country we have little to fear for the future of the League.

IN RETROSPECT we have a number of achievements to our credit this year. Anzac Day was again outstanding; Anzac Day sales will exceed those of last year; our Crowning Glory competition, in association with Torchbearers for Legacy, was a brilliant success. A number of new sub-branch halls have again been opened. Concurrently, a number of new sub-branch memorials have been unveiled. This is most pleasing and indicates a healthy note of enthusiasm.

TURNING to 1960, big projects are afoot. Tenders have recently been called for extensive alterations to and remodelling of Anzac House. These plans are designed to modernise our historic building, make better facilities available to Club members and their wives, give the men better quarters and bring in much-needed revenue from a modern ballroom.

HARD on the heels of this project comes the calling of tenders this month for our new War Veterans' Home. By Congress of 1960 the home should be well on its way. This will be an achievement second to none in the history of the League, and we have set our hearts on making this our War Veterans' Home, the equal of any similar building in any State of Australia.

Sub-branches are rallying splendidly to the cause and the number of donations for the furnishing of individual sub-branch rooms is most pleasing.

ANOTHER highlight will be the return of the Port Said Memorial to Albany. This will indeed be a red-letter occasion for former mounted Diggers in all parts of Australia and New Zealand. I look forward to the unveiling of this memorial as being one of the most historic occasions of the year if the League.

SO WITH the passing of the old year, we approach the new; confident in our ability to do a worthwhile task and fortified immeasurably by the loyalty, cooperation and generosity of every one of our sub-branches.

MAY I THANK you personally for all that you have done to assist me during my term of office as State President, thank your wives for their part, and join with you in the common wish that 1960 will bring us a further year of peaceful prosperity and that goodwill will indeed prevail amongst all men.

Executive Urged To Visit North

A Derby sub-branch member when in Perth for a spell recently invited the State Executive to make a tour of the north.

A State Executive party would be very welcome in Derby and throughout the north of the State, he said. He is Mr. Jim Malone.

Last year, Mr. Malone said, the Derby sub-branch had arranged a reception for an expected executive and executive member who had never arrived.

Reprising, Mr. Lonnie explained that the executive had been pretty close to arranging a visit to northern sub-branches once or twice a year. He admitted the difficulties of thepost due partly of any size would to the distances involved be fairly prohibitive.

Economies Have Been Made

Savings in the League’s administration costs in this State for the current financial year are likely to be between £2,500 and £3,000. This was reported to the State Executive by Mr. R. E. Morris recently.

"Two years ago I lost my right arm in a motor accident and after the effects of the 'needles' I suffered a great deal of pain. I had to use tablets without much good result. I was advised to give BEX a go. Needless to say, the BEX powders are really life savers. About 16 months ago I had a very serious operation. You will always find BEX in my home. Keep up the good work."

Land-Speculation Reports Rouse League Members

Recently published reports of a proposal to sell Australian real estate to nationals in other countries have created concern in many quarters and are deeply disturbing to League members throughout Australia.

In a special statement on the reported proposals the national President of the League (Sir George Holland) has this to say:

"The claim made by the chairman of the company that the selling of residential sites in Australia to overseas speculators was no different to selling Australian steel overseas was plainly ridiculous. Steel is a manufactured product, the export of which benefits the whole country, whereas a residential asset is a part of our soil and our heritage.

Ownership of our land by foreign nationals simply ties up the land as an investment, keeping it from our own people until it is sold to them at a profit.

No nationals in other countries should be allowed to exploit or hoard our people. No country should permit any investment that could lead to such a situation."

Land must be made available at a reasonable price for commercial development and industrial enterprise in Australia. This is for the benefit of Australia's people, not for non-Australians who would benefit only the speculators and their agents who see nothing wrong with the practice.

The question of the transfer of assets is such that instances should be examined. If no provision exists in either State or Commonwealth law to prevent such transfers to overseas speculators, the member has the right to voice opposition to such legislation and to oppose the Commonwealth Government's concerns.

16th Battalion Association

Nineteen members and three visitors attended the association's final committee meeting for 1959 (on December 9), and apologies were received from another member who was on holidays, V. A. Williams (in hospital).

The visitors welcomed were Messrs. G. Brown, N. Pickering, and A. Rowi. Also welcomed were new committee member Wally Marrion and his wife.

After a fairly lengthy meeting members joined forces with 18 members of the ladies' auxiliary to hold the annual Christmas party, at which all had an enjoyable time. Good catering and ample refreshments were available, and all did justice to them.

During the evening the auxiliary president, Mrs. Newick, handed to Mr. O. Waterman a substantial cheque to augment the association's funds. Our thanks to the ladies.

The association is to make a donation to the Blackboy Hill Campsite Memorial Fund.

The South Australian Flag appeal received a boost along with several donations from members present, and more is expected.

Geraldton Stalwart Passes

A World War I veteran and 59, with the renowned 10th Light Horse Regiment—Mr. John Owen Hackett, died at Geraldton on December 20 after a lengthy illness. He was 75.

Jack Hackett—as he was familiarly known—set an example to younger members of the Geraldton sub-branch by his attendance at meetings and Anzac Day parades.

He was well known in Geraldton, having been born in the district and lived there all his life except for periods of service. He lived in the town after retiring from his farm at Warakurra.

The sub-branch paid a tribute to his 'late and lamented' member by flying the flag at half-mast at Birdwood House.

New Book On Gallipoli Epic

Although it is nearly 45 years since the epic landing on Gallipoli, the stirring part played by Australia and New Zealand in that great adventure has been kept very much in the forefront of the national consciousness—largely due to League determination that it shall be so.

In both countries, Anzac Day each year has become one of the great national days when the whole of the public can reflect with pride on the valour and determination shown by their countrymen. This year the imagery of those historic events on Australia's gun-trees for all time has become a firm resolve with the public.

It is with this resolve in mind in recent years it has been used to give children a place in the ceremonial proceedings, and now schools' service at the State War Memorial on the eve of Anzac Day has been extended to schools throughout the State.

Many have been written about the exploits at Gallipoli, and much no doubt will be said and written about the campaigns in the future. These stories should come from the pen of a well-known Australian author, and Dale Collins' book on the subject, now deceased, is one last attempt at regenerating the memory.

What had happened was that the Turks had opened fire as our boats approached the beach until the evacuation in December, 1915. This diarist has recorded his real name and is referred to throughout as Jack.

The book starts with a reference to that pistol shot the flagellation of casualties. The shrapnel and the end of the peninsula.

The British Empire declared on Germany on August 4, 1914. On November 1st of that year—just a month after the first convoy of 36 transports and their escorts, steamed out of Albany Harbour.

The whole account of the troops was to be sent to Egypt and, with the dawn of the first day, the Germans were on the top of the ridge, and were endeavouring to work their way northwards along it.

Confused Fighting
We gain an insight into the nature of the fighting throughout that final battle, the further landings and the long slog of the gunners to evade the enemy. The attack had been launched on the 1st day of the week.

We are reminded of many exploits themselves and their officers—names such as John Simpson Kirkpatrick (the Gallipoli Stonemason), Jacka, V.C.; Bernard Cyril Frew and the illustrations of light decoy-flares farther up the peninsula.

Names like Anzac Cove, Birdwood's Ridge, Monash Valley, Quinns, Pope's and Pine Ridge, and Anzac—names that will never be forgotten by the men who fought there, and will never be forgotten by our eyes.

Finally, as the approach of winter added to the difficulties of supply and reinforcement, we are acquainted with the background to the decision to evacuate the peninsula, and with the cool strategems that enabled the evacuation to be carried out without a hitch of our forces unscathed.

Campaign's Toll
But only after an eight-month campaign in which Australia had lost 28,954 killed and 68,285 wounded.

The British losses were 19,676 and the French 27,004.

Not only the transport of the troops was conducted, but the Anzacs were left with the task of fighting. They went on to add to their honours in great battles in France and to win new laurels in the deserts of the Middle East.

Dale Collins closed his fine account of the campaign by saying: "Our conduct of the war is due to the Anzacs more real to young Australians and future generations, and give a deeper meaning to Anzac Day as they came and went."

"Anzac is part of our heritage and the future of the Commonwealth."

Bairnsfather Revisited
A Bairnsfather cartoon published in a recent issue of Victoria's "Muffi" has given Western Australia's State President some ideas about using the subject-matter for membership purposes in this State.

Mr. Lonnie told the State Executive meeting that this cartoon, which was drawn by Bairnsfather, reminded him of an experience when the "Muffi" was printed and the defaced copy was returned.

"Well, if you know of a better badge to get it," he added.

Mr. H. J. Sykes, the Kendal sub-branch president, who was present at the meeting by invitation, said that the reference to Bairnsfather reminded him of an experience when Mr. P. L. Greenberg remitted a badge to a member.

"I am sure we should be able to get one for the State, and I am sure it would be a better badge than the fellowship badge," Mr. Sykes said.

Apply now for inclusion in the Anzac Delegation To N.Z.

There is still room for the inclusion of some West Australians in this year’s Anzac Delegation to New Zealand, but time is running short.

Therefore, if you would like to be included make your application without delay through the Stationery, Anzac House.

The delegation is to comprise 50 members including 12 officers and 40 other ranks. The necessary arrangements have already been made by the New Zealand R.S.A. on repayment.

On April 23 the whole party is to embark at Auckland for Sydney—to be followed by the travel with Group 1. The period spent away from Sydney will be 21 days. foil in Sydney on return. The total cost from Sydney to New Zealand and return has been estimated (approximately) at $1,650 made up as follows.

If any wives accompany their husbands on the trip, they will have to be added with the following costs.

- Wives to travel with and from Sydney, plus accommodation and travelling costs, in N.Z. about £80 (but depending on the usual arrangement costs in Sydney) if staying overnight.
- The experience has suggested that there will be a very large number of single men on the trip and that they will find their own way of getting about.
- If any wives accompanying their husbands on the trip, they will have to be added with the following costs, in N.Z.

8. N.Z. centre you would prefer to visit for Anzac commemoration (every effort will be made to meet the request, but if not possible, it will be allocated to the next highest request).

9. Medical Fitness—If applicant has suffered any serious illness, it is essential that a medical certificate of fitness to travel must be furnished.

10. Marching—state whether you are able to take part in Anzac Day marches.

11. Accommodation in Sydney—exact overnight dates are required.

In General

Intending applicants are asked to take note of the following general information:

- War medals should be clearly marked.
- Dress, particularly for receptions and other functions, must be suitable, on the occasion of the opening ceremony.
- Open-neck shirts are “out.”
- Members of the delegation, with the delegate and group leaders and group members, will have to conform to the official programme of functions and entertainments drawn up by the N.Z.R.S.A.
- Income tax clearances are necessary.
- Refunds to the shipping company must be paid promptly on request.
- Cancellations will have to be notified without delay so that those on the reserve list can be warned.

Steel Output

Portentous

Britain’s steel production created a record in November, averaging 8,600 tons a week, according to the Iron and Steel Board in London. The November weekly average compared with 7,880 tons in October and 75,500 tons in November, 1938. The production in November was thus 30 per cent higher than a year ago. The British Steel Corporation’s weekly average production figure was 443,300 tons, reached on the 13th week in November.

Steel production is an important indicator of economic activity and the steel trade’s success. It is the speed and extent of industrial expansion in the United Kingdom.
Child Delinquency—A Menace Of Our Time

W.A. is to have its own edition of a recent South Australian publication dealing with one of the grave problems of our time—child delinquency—and particularly with its mob-manifestation as the bogey-widgey cult.

This is the result of a visit to this State in December of the editor of the volume, Dick Wordley, an Australian journalist. The book deals not only with the excesses and perversion of the bogey-widgey cult and of the experiences of many responsible citizens who have been brought face to face with these things in an endeavour to stamp them out. For it is the book's prime purpose to alert parents to the peril, and to help them to surmount it safely.

The book is called "The Gap," and its subtitle "A Book to Bridge the Dangerous Gap" says it all. The success of the South Australian edition was so striking—the first print of 50,000 copies soon sold out and a second print was demanded—Mr. Wordley and his associates widen their horizons to consider editors in New South Wales, Victoria and Western Australia. The Australian Newsprint Ltd. has undertaken to support the venture in this State.

Among the organisations Mr. Wordley made contact with was the R.S.L. He is a Life member himself and has a wife and children.

He told members of the State Executive at their meeting on December 16 that he had been a correspondent with the "Sydney Morning Herald" at the age of 24 years, and for some years had been working with the "Adelaide News." He had also written several novels and had brought out a booklet on the visit of the Queen Mother to South Australia.

Sudden Upsurge

About four-and-a-half years ago there had been a sudden upsurge of juvenile delinquency in Adelaide, and a special squad of police had been assigned to deal with it.

Mr. Wordley said he had been present at Juvenile Court proceedings and had seen about 300 girls and countless youths facing charges. About 20 months ago he had made an investigation into youth problems with another Adelaide journalist, Bill Blake. Before their inquiries were completed they had decided to have a go at this juvenile problem.

They knew that the figures for the past few years showed a rise in the number of cases, and that the problem was largely to do with the home. They had come to know many of the people and organisations who had been concerned themselves with the problem, and in planning the book the book and decided not to give an account of their experiences.

Mr. Wordley was the Commissioner of Police and Sgt. H. A. Gollan—the man who had been chosen to spearhead the police drive against the delinquents—these contributors included not only psychiatrists, psychologists and educators but also such popular figures as South Australian Olympic Gold Medalist Marjory Jackson, who got caught in the vortex—and would now like to forget the past but is constantly being reminded of it—then theancement of the girl's mother, and using the statements of the special juvenile social workers to endeavour to bring home to parents generally, and to children, the dangers of these years that lie between childhood and adulthood; life is broadening out and there is a quest for excitement and a desire to be independent of its author.

West Leederville-Wembley-Floreat Presidential Report For 1959

The president of the West Leederville-Wembley-Floreat Park sub-branch (Mr. E. McGuirk) has presented the following report on his sub-branch's activities over the past 12 months.

Once again I wish to report that the year ending has been a satisfactory and productive one for our sub-branch. I would like to thank the office bearers and members for their support throughout the year. Also our various sporting activities and the members who have acquitted themselves quite well in the A.R.M.S. Games in our occasions and sports evenings held.

Although our membership has decreased a little we still have our regular members. Many of these members have attended all our meetings and socials conducted by this branch. Many of these members compare very favourably with many members of other branches. I am hoping they will be well enough in their health to continue attending the branch for many years to come. The branch has the privilege of having a few members pass out during 1959, and I feel it is only fair that our branch should be very grateful to the members and an asset to the branch as a whole.

The Reunion

The annual reunion was held on October 16 and was well attended by members and visitors. I am paying three other sub-branch reunions during the year. I am certain that our reunion compares very favourably in regard to attendance.

The sale of poodles was quite good this year, 1,500 being obtained and approximately 1,400 sold, and Amelioration Fund has benefited considerably.

During the year that our branch was in control of the hall we have been able to maintain it on a very reasonable level.

Anzac Day

Our Anzac Day service was a credit to the members and their families and friends, and to the residents and youth organisations of the district. Our service was well attended and we had our usual support from the public.

The response by the members at home and those attending the service in the Leederville Town Hall was particularly good.

The day of Anzac Day being a Sunday, a service was held in the Methodist Church in the morning and the Salvation Army in the evening, and both services were well attended by our members. Mr. Vaughan and Major Jones were very impressed and are hoping for the same support in the coming year. I would like to thank members of the Great-City branch for their support at our march and service.

During the early part of the year the sub-branch had the privilege of having Mr. C. O'Connor, Mr. T. Hayes and Mr. T. Hayes kindly volunteered to take over the work of the sub-branch. After a short spell in hospital Mr. O'Connor re-acquainted himself with their work a few weeks back in hospital again, this time for a period of six months. Mr. Hayes again offered his services promptly, and at the last general meeting was re-elected for the balance of the year.

Although Mr. Hayes had no previous experience in this capacity he has done a fine job for the branch and I would like to offer him my congratulations.

During the year the branch decided to extend the hall on the west side, and I feel sure that the addition will be of great benefit to the members and an asset to the hall as a whole.

The Sport World

I would like to offer congratulations to the Gloucest-Park branch on winning the shield in the A.R.M.S. Games. I feel this branch was unfortunate to be edged out of the first four and feel confident that had we made the four we would have played in the final at least.

I would like to thank our Honorary Secretary, Mr. Stan Waldecker for his efficient manner in which he handled this important position, not only on nights but also during his attendance and his arrangements of the programme for our games to play.

I realise it is impossible to thank all members individually for their good deeds for this branch throughout the year, but feel I must thank Mr. Christensen for his efficient handling of our printing requirements during the year.

Also to thank all for supplying circulars and envelopes on a few occasions when urgently needed, and his labour going out the duties of Hospital Visitor. Although I realise he enjoys this position, I know he must take a great deal of his valuable time.

Our ladies auxiliary held its annual Christmas Party on December 9. I feel the ladies were well attended by members who don't attend I realise what a pleasant and enjoyable night they are missing out on, and I am hoping the attendance of members next year at this event will be even better.

Committee meetings were held the first Monday in each month and were well attended by members of the auxiliary and our members.

The Good Job

I feel sure the affairs of the branch have been handled in a capable manner by the members. In conclusion, I would like to thank the ladies auxiliary office bearers and members for the interest in sub-branch business and activities and for the solid support the branch have had on all occasions during 1959.

Wishing one and all, and their families, a Merry Christmas and a healthy and prosperous New Year.

7 Applicants For Post At Faversham

There were seven applicants for the post of temporary superintendent at Faversham. Mr. B. A. Dodd told the State Executive on December 16 that the department would be recommended shortly, he told the executive.

Mr. Dodd was appointed to hold the annual Christmas treat for Faversham veterans on December 23.

New Naval Training Scheme For W.A.

The Minister for the Navy (Senator Gorton) has announced that the Navy is to re-introduce a system of boys' training somewhat similar to that which used to operate in H.M.A.S. Tingira.

The boys, who will be known as Junior Recruits, will be taken into the Navy between the ages of 15½ and 17½ years and will be trained at H.M.A.S. Leeuwin. The course will be of one year's duration and 300 recruits will be taken at the rate of 30 per month. This year's intake of 300 will be followed by another intake of 300 in 1961. The Navy believes that this system will help to secure bright boys who are also to leave school at 15 and are not, at that age, eligible for entry into the Navy. Many of these boys are now lost to the Navy altogether, or if they enlist at 17, have not had the opportunity of training.

By taking them directly from school it will be possible to continue their education without a break and to send them on to technical training at the Naval Depot, Watford, fitted to get through the course in a shorter time.

Solid At Quinlinup

Representing the State Executive at the recent Quinlinup reunion was Mr. J.E. Weston of Manjimup, who has an excellent account.

It was a really informative session as it included the whole of the work of the men.

All credit must go to Quinlinup members on their efforts, the success only being due to the enthusiasm of the town's eligible for membership they are keen on friendship with. At the gathering they have an average at their meetings, and by being prepared.

Glen Forrest “Annual”

At the annual meeting of the Glen Forrest sub-branch on December 17th Mr. M.J. Walker, of the State Executive, reinstated Mr. Viv. Bonovan as president, Mr. Stan Lawrence as secretary and Mr. Alby Wells as treasurer.

The branch has flourished financially, and in the last 12 months its members have raised a total of $15,400 for Sickly. The branch has also been successful in its local progress association, and leading lights of Glen Forrest have been Messrs. J. Moore, R. Hawke, E. Hill and two from Mundaring.

Mr. Jim Longworth played music for the evening, and after the speeches were made, excellent refreshments were provided by the wives of members.

New Warden: The Warden of the State War Memorial for 1960-61 is Sir Charles Latham. He is shown here (second from left) receiving the key to the memorial following the Remembrance Day wreath-laying ceremony from the State President (Mr. Lonnie). Standing between the two is the outgoing Warden (Sir Thomas Meagher). On the left is the Assistant-Warden, Mr. E.C. Townshead.

Another Memorial Hall

Opened—At Belmont

The Belmont R.S.L. Memorial Hall in Leake-street was opened by the Rev. Norman Hall and officially opened by the State President on December 5th.

After the dedication ceremony sub-branch president Mr. Noble gave a brief outline of the work of R.S.L. Remembrance Day, and how it was even more important.

By taking them directly from school it will be possible to continue their education without a break and to send them on to technical training at the Naval Depot, Watford, fitted to get through the course in a shorter time.

PERSONAL PARS

Secretary of the Hall's Creek sub-branch, Frank McGrath, was a welcome and very interested visitor at the recent State Executive meeting. The sub-branch has just re-formed after a period in recession, and Frank said that it was now growing stronger every day and that there was keen enthusiasm there. The Executive sends congratulations and all good wishes to member of the Executive.

Another recent visitor to Headquar ters was Bill Robinson from Busselton. He brought news of the very fine work they have been doing, not only in effect to him there.

And moving still further afield, the sub-branch at Cocoa-Keeling, in arranging for their Christmas party, have State Secretary Bill Webb and his staff at Anzac House quite a keen problem — the children attempting to comply with the sub-branch request for a purple ice-cream for the function.

Privileged Visit To Gallipoli

By GEORGE SHAW

I wish to thank Sir George Holland for his letter of introduction to General Kealereen. You cannot understand what that letter did, but I will try and paint you a picture of events.

From England I sent forward an airmail letter to the British Embassy in Istanbul asking them to pave the way for me to see the general. On arrival I had to wait until Monday 20th before I could contact the office. When I did, I found they were an unknown. The letter had not arrived and I was told by the chief, whom I managed to see, that he could not hold out any hope of it being delivered because the Turks were celebrating Ramadan and all mails were held by night of that period. I was told that I had no chance of seeing the general, it was close security and that even he was not allowed.

But Major Millington was expected up the next day and he might be able to do something. In the meantime I could only wait and hope. My letter of introduction would not be delivered and therefore I would have to go to Anzac on the 23rd and inform him personally. I was told 14,000 miles for this and was going to Millington.

I did what any reasonable man would do; I took a chance and waited for the morning of the 21st at 8 a.m. I posted that letter to the general, arrived and then went to the Embassy to see Millington. There I was introduced to a Mr. Jones, an Australian now of Greece, who knew the area well and the conditions of entry, and was certain I would not get through.

Took A Chance

Millington arrived and told me my only hope was to fly down the Asian coast to Trow Anzac Travel Agency who would get me round in a jeep. I was not allowed to get out of the plane, but was to see one or two maquis and then to be taken down himself in his own car. Candidly I was thrilled, and the staff were astounded at the position that I had taken to get to the general and he said:

"They suggested that the letter had not arrived, and the general had not been sent. It was to be given personal as to what I wished to do." I was particularly interested in the Haywire.

Haywire

This was good, but I passed the remark that something was haywire. No general could say he would give me a permit and then inform me he had 3,000 miles away.

"I was to get the permit at 10 a.m. the next day 22nd. Would I call round? I did, and then was told that on the 24th a officer would take me down."

Things by now were getting complicated and I was almost out of the position because one more day and I would not be at Anzac on the 25th. But at 11 a.m. I was met by two staff majors. One was from the general’s personal staff. He informed me that the general was deeply moved at my visit and would send me down with this other officer who had orders to let me do what I wished. We spent 30 minutes later and informed me that he had been given written orders that he should have all facilities to do what I wished and that he make sure I was brought back safe and sound next day.

We paged into the security zone and all sentries gave the salute as we passed. We were NOT stopped for examination. I was asked to know why and was told that they had been alerted to give free access, and such was the case. We arrived at General’s house and were put up at the Officers’ Club and given dinner. By the way, it was the only car we journeyed in.

At 6.30 on Anzac Day we journeyed 50 miles to the Greek area and were not stopped although we were not being escorted by a jeep as it was, feared that we would be caught. We passed through all security guards without question. I then started to go over the area.

Old Landmarks

I can say that the positions did not change and they were exactly realised. In some cases the trenches were obliterated by the direction of the memorials—especially those at the Nek, the position of which was very important for an important phase of the visit. But the positions where I was were marked, and I went to the 19th and 20th December, 1915, were recognised and I went to the Anzac, and the major, who remarked that in all cases I was in the correct positions.

Ex-Service Canadians Living Abroad Can Claim These Benefits

This statement of benefits provided by Canada’s Veterans’ Charter for Canadians living outside Canada is published under the authority of Canada’s Minister for Veterans’ Affairs, the Hon. Alfred J. Brooks.

Pension Act: The Pension Act gives the Canadian Pension Commission authority to pay pensions on disabilities, including aggravation of pre-enlistment disabilities, or deaths which were incurred on or are attributable to military service in the time of war. Awards under the Act are paid to those concerned irrespective of their place of residence.

A veteran of the Canadian Forces living outside Canada, who has a disability which he considers may not be pensionable, may write in full detail on pension matters to the Canadian Pension Commission, Ottawa, Canada.

Treatment Regulations: Veterans to whom pension entitlement has been granted under the Canadian Pension Act, may be given, on the recommendation of the Department of Veterans’ Affairs, treatment for their pensionable disability at any time, regardless of where they live.

Under certain conditions of service and financial circumstances, Canadian veterans may receive treatment for non-pensionable conditions in a departmental hospital in Canada.

Veterans’ Insurance: Virtually all persons who were ever eligible under the Canadian Veterans’ Insurance Act may now purchase this protection up to Sept. 30, 1962, providing they do not already have the maximum of 10,000 dollars allowed under the Act on any one life. Re-establishment Credit: Canadian veterans, residing outside Canada, are eligible for re-establishment credit, but may use it only for the purchase of veterans’ insurance. Eligibility for these credits expires on Sept. 30, 1962, or 15 years after termination of service in the Special Force, whichever is the later date.

Education Assistance: To the secondary school, college, or university level, for the children of those who have died as a result of war service, is not available outside Canada. However, such children may receive this assistance if they undertake suitable courses of study in Canadian educational institutions. More detailed information may be obtained by writing to the Department of Veterans’ Affairs, Ottawa, Canada.

When writing, be sure to include correct service numbers, full names and present addresses.

CHRISTMAS PARTIES: Two Christmas functions were held by the State Executive on December 18 were the Inland Veterans’ Association’s party on the night of December 18 and the South Africa Veterans’ Association party on December 21.

my regret we had differential trouble with the car going back. Being in some doubt what to do I told the major I would not take the risk of some 800 miles with the car in such condition, as parts were not obtainable in Turkey; I would have to go slowly forward to Italy. He understood, and wrote to the general and sincerely thanked him for a glorious job.

Mixed memories now fill my thoughts. Before the visit I have visited them in positions very clearly—I knew the several areas.

Now, when I visualise them, they are superimposed with the black line but still there, and obliterating the vivid recollections of the past. Still I do not regret the visit and having fulfilled a dream. I hope, never to forget the kindness shown to me and Mrs. Shaw during our 12-day stay in that delightful city.

I thank Sir George for the letter. It was the finishing point and use the words of the Vice-Consul, “I wish you a happy New Year.”

THE LAST POST

For the Darling Range sub-branch the annual cricket match against Cottesloe has come to be regarded as one of the most pleasant events of the year, and the game on Wednesday, September 5 was no exception.

In addition to being most enjoyable, the event also provided themselves better cricketers on this occasion. Through the courtesy of the Kalamunda Golf Club, Darling Range was able to return Cottesloe’s hospitality during November by arranging a golf match with them.

The hazards of this course added to the convivial spirit of the gathering, and while the golf was taking place the families were entertained with a picture show. The visitors again talked about with most of the trophies.

The children’s Christmas party by the sub-branch early in December proved most successful, as more than 70 children and their parents attended into the R.S.L Memorial Hall at Kalamunda for the occasion.

The main business for the December meeting of the sub-branch was a Christmas Goose Club raffle, followed by a barbecue.

Service Their Object

Geraldton sub-branch president Bill Cunningham is being showered with congratulations on his election to the west ward of the Municipal Council. Bill scored an overwhelming victory over the sitting councillor.

Another sub-branch member, Eddy Clarke, is being congratulated on his re-election without opposition, while a third, Councillor Cliff Clarke, is likewise receiving endorsements on his re-election to the central ward without opposition.

Their motto—“Make '60 Much Bigger, Enrol a new Digger”—obviously is “Service in peace time as in war.” B.B.E.

Inscriptions On Trophy

Inscriptions on the Mary Clarke Trophy—presented annually to the sub-branch selling most Remembrance Day poppies—were brought up to date. This was decided by the sub-branch at its meeting on December 1.

Mr. R. B. Marris had pointed out that by some oversight the trophy had not been inscribed for a number of years.

At This Year’s Albany Dinner

At a more serious stage in the proceedings Mr. Lonnie spoke of the aims and purposes of the League.

A most important function, he said, was to ensure that the real meaning of Anzac was never lost.

It must inculcate in the minds of young people that they were privileged to live in the finest country in the world, and instill in them a love of country.

Another task facing the League was the erection and maintenance of a place for old Diggers. He felt that with the full support of sub-branches this should be readily achieved.

He said there were many returned men who were still not members of the League; they should be encouraged to join to help strengthen it still further.

As it was the membership was growing.

Since its commencement in 1916 the League had helped to prove the adage that the finer things in life were those that were good and worthwhile.

Auxiliary Round-up

Office-bearers Reappointed At Victoria Park

There was a big attendance at the annual general meeting of the Victoria Park auxiliary. Mrs. Ford (president) welcomed old and new members, and the annual reports were read and applauded.

For the election of officers Mrs. Edith Edith, Mrs. Edna Coleman, Mr. Arthur Peck (hon. sec.) and Long (treasurer) were re-elected unopposed.

Mesdames Fisher and Crighton were re-elected vice-presidents, and Mesdames Timms, Karrige and Hagart (as trustees—which makes this our new social convenor.

The committee elected consists of Mesdames Herbert, Toms, Powell, Hodgetts, Martin and Jackson. Mrs. Ford was re-elected publicity officer.

Christmas cheer for the inmates of the Braille Home was arranged in conjunction with the R.S.I. sub-branch, and a special gift for each Digger was distributed by Mesdames Haig, Sharland and Long. The evening concluded with all present enjoying a hearty supper. Amusing anecdotes and community singing concluded a very enjoyable evening.

The Auxiliary will go into recess until February 11 when we hope to have a record attendance when subscriptions will be due.

Husband-Wife Combination

Hearty congratulations to Mrs. and Mrs. who have followed in the footsteps of their husband by being elected presidents of the Geraldton R.S.L. Women's Auxiliary.

The husband, Mr. W. J. (Bill) Reilly, has been sub-branch president for the past three years and has done a wonderful job in that capacity.

Mrs. Cunningham succeeds and is well known for her good work as auxiliary president during the past five years.

Mrs. Smith was elected senior vice-president this year by Mrs. F. P. Cunning. Younger vice-president.

The hard-working, Mrs. T. E. Heath treasurer, and Mrs. F. T. Heath treasurer; and Mesdames W. Heath, Mrs. J. Taylor and M. Elliott turned the Auxiliary allocated £5/0/0 to the Christmas Cheer fund and £12/12/0 to the hospital-visiting fund. They volunteered gifts valued at 10/0 each to ex-servicemen patients in the hospitals at Christmas.

An Auxiliary Entertained

On Wednesday, December 16, members of the Bunbury sub-branch entertained the women's auxiliary to an enjoyable evening of dancing, musical items and excellent refreshments.

A three-piece orchestra rendered dance music, both old and new. During the evening Mrs. Pain, president of the women's auxiliary, presented the sub-branch president with a cheque for £150 towards the sub-branch funds.

Mr. Pain said that throughout the Auxiliary's existence they had enjoyed a most successful year.

Gay Scene At Coolgardie

On December 13 Coolgardie Park was the scene of the annual Christmas tree, which is organised by the R.S.I. Women's Auxiliary.

The park was a blaze of lights when the Christmas 'arrived at 8 o'clock, escorted by the Salvation Army Band. 300 children were waiting to greet him. Each child received a gift, sweets, ice-cream and drinks and had a wonderful time. After receiving their gifts the children were entertained by the pipe band.

The auxiliary wishes to thank all who helped in any way to make this function a success—especially the town electricians, who every year make such an excellent job of lighting the park.

Corps Leaves Scope For Sub-Branches

Under the leadership of State Executive member Jim White the Corps of Hospital Visitors is now operating very successfully in doing a valuable job of work in assisting patients with whom they are referred to hospital.

It is, however, necessary to remind sub-branches everywhere that the activities of the Memorial Visiting Corps do not relieve sub-branches of their responsibility to their own members when in hospital.

The Hospital Visiting Corps attends in particular to problems of hospital patients—either by personal visits or by friendly calls in their headquarters. It is still the responsibility of sub-branches to visit and take comfort to their members.

Good News For Veterans Of Korea, Malaya

The Minister for Repatriation (Senator John Cooper) has announced that the final closing date for the lodging of applications by those still eligible for re-establishment training to the Korea and Malaya Training Scheme administered by his department has been extended from December 31, 1963, to December 31, 1963.

Sir Walter explained that soldiers who wanted to have training exemptions but who were not notified by December 31, 1963, would now have a further period within which to lodge an application.

They may now apply with 12 months of the date of discharge from their current engagement but not later than December 31, 1963.

League To Purchase New Car

After less than a year on the road the League car is to be traded in on a new model. This was decided at the December 16 meeting of the State Executive. Mr. R. B. Marriott reported that the transfer could be made for about £180. Subscribers, he said, had been honouring their undertakings regarding the car-replacement fund, the balance of which stood at over £150. The mileage reading of the car was about 8,000.

BLACKBOY, AND THE SPIRIT OF ANZAC

Those New Year resolutions—do they include a resolve to send in your donation and perhaps enable the Blackboy Camp commemoration project to be completed during 1960?

The following report submitted by Mr. Ean McDonald, architect for the project, may correct some of the misconceptions that have arisen in connection with the proposed pylon. Mr. McDonald’s report is quoted verbatim:

“I would like to correct an impression abroad that the sections of the proposed Blackboy Pylon represent the 1st, or 2nd, or 3rd A.I.F. If this were so, then the assumption must be that the A.I.F. began at the first and ended at the third, and then the whole spirit of the commemoration is to be lost.

“It is perhaps contributory to the success of the Pylon, after springing from the ground, rises in three sections; but this is purely an aesthetic consideration.

“The A.I.F.’s were not correctly numbered, although the battalions of World War Two were prefixed ‘Second’. The original pylon numbers persevere to the present day, and their men of the calibre of their forebears, reinforced by their forebears’ deeds and traditions.

“My conception for the design of the pylon arises from the thought and belief of the men of Blackboy who were born of the Anzac in this State; that the spirit was put on, and lives on, from generation to generation of Australia’s fighting men; that the pylon is a simple abstraction of expression of a growth of a character, a tradition sprung originally from the soil of Blackboy, and passed on, for greater glories—into infinity if that became necessary.

“It is the creation and growth of this basic spirit which I considered worthy of commemoration and preservation on the soil of its birth.”

The Blackboy Camp Commemoration Committee, whole-heartedly endorses the sentiments expressed by Mr. Ean McDonald, and thanks him for his conception of the design of the pylon and for the constructive thought he has given to the symbolism. He has embodied in his plan for the commemoration.

The committee trusts that his efforts may soon bear fruit and that donations may be made for the handymen to start to be made to the construction.

You Can Go Up By Lift Again

Frequenter of Anzac Club

The lift was running again, and although the completion of the repairs was several days overdue there was still a week clear to Christmas—indeed it was always a busy time at the club.

The reason for the delay on the job was explained by a representative of the architect. He told the State Executive it had been discovered that the wormshaft was bent. This had been straightened out, and the lift should operate satisfactorily again. It was quite safe to travel in, for even if the shaft were to break the safety device would speedily bring the car to a standstill.

Found-Card, With Name Of "Denning"

A Membership Card issued in 1919 to one by the name of Denning has been found. The initials could be P.J., and the regimental number 297.

The badge number is 297, and the card was issued by the Perth branch of the Returned Sailors, Soldiers and Nurses’ Association of Western Australia.

This is quite an interesting link with the past. The card was picked up in the Perth branch of the Commonwealth Bank.
